Breaking Bread (revised version)

Natalie J Ledford

♩ = 128

Co- mun- nion comes in the brea- king, the brea- king of bo- dy and soul. The loaves- and the fi- shes, the sim- pl- est.things, set in- to mo- tion pro- vi- sion, the fe- llow- ship of the king. All I have I o- ffer, give You e- very thing. I choose to trust You Fa- ther, what-

e- ver life may bring. Sing-- ing ha- le- lu- ia, I trade my life for Yours. My hopes and fears and heart- break, all the deep- estthings. Free- dom is found in sur- ren- der. I trade my life for Yours. As I yield it all gets sweet- er. If I bend I will not break. The joy and pain are min- gled. Rich wine comes pour- ing forth.

All I have I o- ffer, give You e- very thing. I choose to trust You Fa- ther, what-

33 e- ver life may bring. Sing-- ing ha- le- lu- ia, I trade my life for Yours. My 36 hopes and fears and heart- break, all the deep- est things. When things get tough I 39 have a choice. I choose to stay close to You. Through faith and pa- tience I

43 will per- sist, not turn my back or dis- co- nnect like E- sau who just chose stew. I will

48 run my race. I will stay the course I choose to stay close to You. No dis-- ci- jpline seems 53 plea- sant. The trai- ning may be hard yet the fruit that it yields is worth it. There

58 comes a great re- ward. I choose to dwell on Your good- ness, on Your faith- ful love to 63 me. The bread that we break is price- less, the joy of in- ti- ma cy.
68 All I have I o- ffer, give You e- very thing. I choose to trust You Fa- ther, what-71

e- ver life may bring. Sing-- ing ha- le- lu- ia, I trade my life for Yours. My hopes and fears and heart- break, all the deep- est things. I will run my race. I will stay the course. I choose to stay close to You. I will run my race. I will stay the course. I will press in to You.

74

77

81